Jammu & Kashmir

In this Edition

India-Pakistan relations hit a rough patch in 2016 in the wake of the Uri attack and the subsequent surgical strikes conducted by India. Since then, the two countries have not been actively engaging with each other. The shadow of discord between the two neighbours is also reflecting in the news reports on Pakistan occupied Kashmir, some of which are included in the current issue. On an average, there is a persistent effort on part of the Pakistani establishment to portray India as a belligerent country that is staging attacks on the Line of Control (LoC) and causing loss of lives there. While this is far from reality, truth is that Pakistan for years has perpetrated militancy in Jammu and Kashmir. This has not only caused unprecedented damage in terms of lives lost but has more than often derailed the dialogue process between the two countries. Despite efforts to persuade Pakistan to give up militancy as an instrument of state policy, including from several quarters in international community, the country has relentlessly pursued the agenda of using proxy tactics against India. In one of the reports in the current issue, a leader from PoK acknowledges how Pakistan is spending hefty amount to launch terrorists inside India. Ironically, PoK region is in dire need for development. Instead of spending money on the welfare of the people, Pakistan is misusing it to fulfil its ulterior purposes against India.

Gilgit Baltistan's constitutional limbo is continuing as the committee headed by Sartaj Aziz has failed to make a headway in this direction. The people of the region have waited in anticipation about the outcome of the committee's report. However, the wait of the people continues inordinately and there is not much hope at the moment regarding any progress being made on the region's political status. In view of the CPEC, the undefined constitutional status of Gilgit Baltistan is being hotly debated as a major portion of the corridor cuts across the region before getting into Pakistan.

Zee News, December 10, 2016

In huge trouble for Pakistan Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif, locals in Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK) have hit the streets to protest against the administration. The protesters are demanding freedom from the clutches of Pakistan. To thwart the protests, Pakistani Army was ordered to clamp down on the agitators. Ever since July, PoK region has been witnessing unrest, with hundreds of people coming out in the open to protest against the Pakistani establishment. The locals in PoK have alleged that the July 21 election, which saw Nawaz Sharif's Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) winning 32 out of 41 seats, was rigid. The protesters have maintained that they were not allowed to cast their votes, and Pakistan's Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) agency and others rigged the polls in favour of Sharif's PML-N. Besides PoK the Sharif government has also been entangled in the Balochistan area, where the freedom movement has gained momentum. Ever since Prime Minister Narendra Modi highlighted the human rights violations in Balochistan, several Baloch leaders living in exile have been aggressively advocating for freedom of the restive region from the clutches of Pakistan.

“Pakistan pays Rs 1 cr per terrorist to cross LoC: PoK leader”

Business Standard, December 12, 2016

Even as Pakistan keeps pleading its innocence at international forum regarding it not being involved in terror-related activities, particularly when it comes to India, Sardar Raees Inqlabi, a leader of Pakistan-occupied Kashmir-based Jammu and Kashmir Aman Forum, has rubbished that claim by saying that Islamabad is paying hefty amount of cash to send terrorists across the Line of Control (LoC). “You (Pakistan) are hiring killers and murderers; you pay them one crore rupees and turn them into a bomb and make them cross LoC, which is the main reason of tension.

We condemn this terrorism. If you are so fond of firing, you must fight army to army,” stated Inqlabi. Further exposing Pakistan’s state-support to terror outfits and questioning Islamabad’s ulterior motives, he asked, “Those terror outfits which are banned in Pakistan in accordance with the National Action Plan, why are they being allowed to operate from ‘Azad’ Kashmir (PoK), and why are the banned groups been given a free hand in PoK?” “Those organisations which are banned by Pakistan have been given free hand here and along the LoC, and thus, we demand that Islamabad must impose a blanket ban on such outfits akin to the National Action Plan in Pakistan,” adds Inqlabi.

“Form Mirpur, Muzaffarabad, Poonch scouts to counter terrorism: Chuni”

State Times, December 12, 2016

SOS International exhorted upon the Central Government to constitute Mirpur, Muzaffarabad and Poonch battalion which will prove quite productive in countering terrorism along this side of Line of Control (LoC).

While addressing a rally at Maheshpura Chowk on December 11, SOS International Chairman, Rajiv Chuni noted that presently, there is conflict between India and Pakistan and the stated conflict can’t bring to an end till ages. He also stated that to tackle the ongoing scenario of terrorist activities in State and country, Government must constitute three battalions i.e, Mirpur Scouts, Muzaffarabad Scouts and Poonch Scouts. “The logic behind such a demand is that since youth of these areas from refugees are familiar with language, culture and topography will prove productive in countering terrorism along LoC. The move would also help the financial condition of PoK refugees’ youths by providing employment”, Chuni noted.

Shabir Choudhry, “CPEC – A potential threat to turn Gilgit-Baltistan a battleground – II”

The North Lines, December 16, 2016

Apart from economic aspects, Gwadar also has a great strategic and military significance. Astonishingly, not much attention is given to this; and even not much has been stated about a deal of eight submarines to be supplied by China to Pakistan, which will surely elevate Pakistan's naval military strength. Chinese military ships and submarines have already taken their positions in and around Gwadar. Panos Mourdoukoutas writes in Forbes that ‘China desperately needs the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC). It's part of that nation's vision to write the rules of the next stage of globalization and help its export and investment engines grow for years to come...China has to either appease India or “forget” about the CPEC project’. The article further suggests: “If pro-Indian forces in Pakistan sabotage China's CPEC route," China should expect an open confrontation against India, because that raises the possibility of an open confrontation between China and Pakistan on the one side, and India and its allies on the other.

Dawn, December 24, 2016

The PML-N government in Azad Jammu and Kashmir (AJK) called upon Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif to ask the authorities concerned to take measures for grant of water use charges at a rate of Rs1.10 per unit from the Mangla power project and ‘soon-to-be commissioned’ Neelum-Jhelum hydropower project (NJHP). According to official sources, AJK Prime Minister Raja Farooq Haider has written a letter to Mr Sharif, urging him to consider the region’s case on the basis of equality and justice in the same manner and rates which have been adopted for Khyber Pakhtunkhwa in case of the Tarbela power project or for Punjab’s Ghazi Barotha hydropower project. He wondered how agreements signed with AJK at the time of the construction of the Mangla dam in 1967 and its raising in 2003 had been overlooked to “falsely present AJK as a defaulter” of the Water and Power Development Authority and distribution companies.

Scholars in Gilgit-Baltistan on December 25 demanded that health and education sectors in the region should be made a part of the mega infrastructure projects under the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC). “Obviously CPEC would pass through G-B and people are bound to suffer from dust and other pollutants once the traffic starts flowing through it,” asked Mujahid Shah, a PhD scholar while addressing a seminar in Gilgit on December 25. The seminar, titled “CPEC and prospects of development in education and health in G-B”, was organised by Striving Towards Education And Progress (STEP), a local NGO. Shabbir Mir, “Revival of magisterial system yields results”

The Express Tribune, December 28, 2016

The magisterial system, recently revived in Gilgit-Baltistan after decades, has started yielding effective results as people seem satisfied with the quick dispensation of justice. The system was revived by the government this year in an effort to ensure speedy justice to the public. Nowadays, cases of price hike, black marketing, encroachments, and lesser law and order issues are heard and decided in the courts of deputy commissioners and assistant commissioner, providing quick relief to the people. The executive magisterial powers of deputy and assistant commissioners were abolished under the Local Bodies Ordinance 2002, issued by the then President Gen (retd.) Pervez Musharraf. Under the new law, deputy commissioners and assistant commissioners are empowered to hear cases in which the accused could be sentenced for up to three years.

Shabbir Mir, “A year of highs and some lows for Gilgit-Baltistan”

The Express Tribune, December 31, 2016

The year 2016 brought a mixed bag for Gilgit-Baltistan. Development work resumed and the first shipments under the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor rolled through with a host of foreign and domestic tourists, but there were times when it seemed that the powderkeg of sectarianism was about to blow up. After the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) was voted into government during the June 2015 elections, the party promised to pave over 80 kilometres of roads within the first 100 days of its government. While it may have missed that target last year, it did manage to accelerate development efforts during 2016. Work on paving Shahrah-e-Quaid-e-Azam from Sakwar to Jutial Chowk was completed, while roads in Ghari Bagh and other parts of the city were fully or partially laid. Likewise, roads in various parts of Skardu town were metalled. Despite the promises made, the constitutional limbo, which has haunted the region since its independence, continued this year. A committee formed by Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif to look into the options of making G-B a constitutional part of Pakistan also failed to deliver. The committee, headed by Sartaj Aziz, held several meetings, but without results.

Business Recorder, December 15, 2016

Lahore Chamber of Commerce & Industry (LCCI) on December 14 suggested the Ministry of Finance to launch shares of Diamer Bhasha and other proposed dams in domestic and international stock markets to generate funds for the mega projects. LCCI President Abdul Basit and Vice President Muhammad Nasir Hameed Khan, in a statement, noted that the country needed over $30 billion for the construction of Diamer Bhasha and other dams, and to make them operational for power generation. The government would have to generate funds from its own resources in the absence of funds from international donors, he added. Elaborating the point, the LCCI office-bearers stated around $14 billion would be required for the construction of Diamer Bhasha Dam other while other expenses would also be incurred besides the cost. Around 150 kilometer area of Karakorum Highway would have to be reconstructed at a cost of $6 to 7 billion. Around $3 billion more would be required for erection of transmission line from Diamer Bhasha to the national grid. Humans are the only living beings that have succeeded in overcoming the limits imposed by instinct. This has helped them develop a worldview that fuels a better understanding of self, society and the world. It is this worldview that knits every dimension of society into a symbolic whole called culture. The traditional culture of Gilgit-Baltistan developed in an organic way in a situation of relative isolation from the rest of the world. However, the isolated position of Gilgit-Baltistan started to change with the growing exposure to the outside world in modern times. It has exposed the region to exogenous lifestyles, people, ideas and institutions. Coupled with these elements, the process of modernisation during the last four decades has brought about drastic changes in perception. In the cultural context of Gilgit-Baltistan, the rupture with continuity was not a uniform process across different spheres of life. It has rather occurred in a hybrid form whereby some spheres of life experienced rapid changes and gave way to new things while some elements of traditional worldview have been reinvigorated by the very forces of modernity.

“‘Pro-government’ opposition leader Elected in Azad Kashmir”

Daily Mahasib, December 4, 2016

The Azad Kashmir government in an unprecedented development voted in favour of an opposition leader. This was done only to favour a particular opposition party so that the opposition leader can be used for political expediency. This has happened first time in the history of a parliamentary form of government. Therefore, the government has succeeded in electing ‘pro-government’ opposition leaders. This will dent the spirit of democracy. How can a pro government opposition leader criticise or question government policies? It is not difficult to comprehend it. It became clear during the election of Kashmir Council when a government’s candidate got three votes and the opposition leader grabbed 6 votes. One has to wait and watch that how a pro-government opposition leader performs? Will he be able to undertake his functions smoothly or will he be just a government agent in the form of opposition, only time will tell.

“PPP is not against CPEC, Want equal share”

Daily Baade-e-Shimal, December 10, 2016

The PPP-GB President Amjad Advocate stated that it is under the Chinese pressure that Islamabad is willing to give constitutional rights to Gilgit Baltistan. He further stated that China is reluctant to invest in a disputed territory. Therefore, it wants legal hurdles to be removed. While talking to the media, Amjad stated that the Sartaj Aziz led Committee has finalised its report and in which he has proposed to give Gilgit Baltistan complete constitutional rights. Gilgit Baltistan would be given representation in the National Assembly and in Senate as well. According to Advocate, it was only during PPP rule when Gilgit Baltistan was given provincial setup under the Governance Order 2009. He also stated that the CPEC dream cannot be fulfilled without making Gilgit Baltistan a partner in it. The PPP is not against CPEC but only wants an equal share for the people of Gilgit Baltistan in the corridor.

“AJK’s Financial Crisis: Irrepressible”

Daily Mahasib, December 11, 2016

Azad Kashmir’s financial vows are not ending. It is lingering in this mess since a very long time. Financial crisis does not only affect employers and pensioners but its impact can be seen in the developmental sector also. Those labours who are working in these projects also get affected. One expected that the financial crisis would be addressed after Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif’s recent visit to Muzaffarabad. People were hoping that Nawaz Sharif will announce a huge package for the region. Unfortunately, weather conditions did not allow this to happen. His trip to AJK was postponed. Nawaz Sharif had a talk with Farooq Haider on phone and promised that he will soon visit AJK. When will Nawaz Sharif visit the region no one knows yet? But work on the projects which have been already discussed should start as soon as possible so that AJK does not descent further into financial crisis. Islamabad should prioritise this crisis as it is affecting the common people also.

“Decision on Gilgit-Baltistan’s Constitutional Status not Easy”

Daily Baad-e-Shimal, December 16, 2016

The Senate has given full consent on another report on CPEC. Members of the Senate stated that GB is the gateway of the corridor but it got no economic zones under CPEC. In the CPEC report, members suggested that apart from the KKH, construction of other alternative routes should be built within the corridor. Report also stressed that resentment and pessimism of the Gilgit Baltistan people should be addressed. The report further noted that there has been no development for the people of Gwadar also. It suggested that curfew should not be imposed on roads while transporting containers. On Gilgit Baltistan's constitutional identity, the Senate members maintained that any decisions regarding Gilgit Baltistan's identity is not easy to take. According to the report, Gilgit Baltistan's status is entwined with the Kashmir cause.

Arif Nawaz, “Why is Gilgit-Baltistan Neglected in CPEC?”

Daily Baad-e-Shimal, December 17, 2016

Why is China investing so much in Pakistan? What will they get from it? And what would Pakistan gain from CPEC? What is the importance of Gilgit Baltistan in CPEC? These are the questions every Pakistani has in their minds. We know CPEC does allow China to connect its region with the Gwadar Port. CPEC will help Pakistan to address its energy crisis. There is no doubt that Pakistan's future is linked with CPEC. In other words Pakistan's dream of becoming an Asian tiger is related to it. With CPEC's culmination, Pakistan will become a hub of world trade. Through CPEC, China will address its Malacca dilemma. The Pakistani rulers are saying that every province will benefit from the corridor but no one is talking about Gilgit Baltistan. No one is ready to talk about Gilgit Baltistan's share. Then question that arises: is Gilgit Baltistan not a part of Pakistan? Do people of Gilgit Baltistan not contribute in Pakistan's development? Have people of Gilgit Baltistan not given sacrifices for Pakistan? History tells how much the people of region sacrificed for the defence of Pakistan. In spite of giving so many sacrifices for Pakistan, the rulers neglected Gilgit Baltistan in CPEC. One cannot even understand the logic behind it. I just want to remind the Pakistani rulers that Gilgit Baltistan people are also Pakistani. They should also be given equal rights and treated at par with the people from other provinces so that this region will also step towards development.

“AJK Prime Minister is not Thwarting GB's Development”

Daily Salam, December 26, 2016

In a meeting with the members of the Gilgit Baltistan Council, Raja Farooq Haider assured them that his government will not hinder the development of Gilgit Baltistan. Haider further stated that he wants Gilgit Baltistan to get a bigger status than the AJK setup. Gilgit Baltistan and Kashmir share similar tradition, language and history. Our effort is to reduce the difference and distance between the people of the two regions. Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif is satisfied with the work and development in both Gilgit Baltistan and AJK. This is a good gesture on part of AJK's Prime Minister. He has offered a hand of friendship to the people of GB. But one should take his statement on Gilgit Baltistan with a pinch of salt. Whatever he stated in past regarding Gilgit Baltistan was reported in media. His predecessor Chaudhry Abdul Majeed once stated that Gilgit Baltistan should not be made a province. JKLF leader Yaseen Malik also expressed his reservation in a letter he wrote to Nawaz Sharif. Statements from the Kashmir leadership is the reason why the differences and resentment have grown between these two regions. Gilgit Baltistan has suffered more than anybody else for the Kashmir cause. Without having a constitutional identity for the last 69 years, people of Gilgit Baltistan still celebrate Kashmir day every year. On the other hand, Kargil and Ladakh is also part of a disputed region but India has given them representation in the Lok Sabha.

“CPEC in GB and the responsibility of the Government”

Daily Salam, December 30, 2016

Two big projects of Gilgit Baltistan, Chilmisdas and Phander power project have been inducted in CPEC. It was decided in meeting of JCC in China. This meeting was attended by the provincial heads including GB in Chin. Hafeez ur Rehman also made a presentation there and strongly highlighted GB’s concerns and demands regarding CPEC. Hafeez ur Rehman further stated that if GB is not given its full share in CPEC, people will get distressed. This in turn will help enemy to exploit this resentment among the people regarding CPEC. Therefore, the Committee gave their consent to include four power projects in CPEC. This is a good step to address the power woes. These projects if completed on time will address power crisis in the GB. Government of GB should also take initiative to introduce eco-friendly projects so that the corridor along with development of the region does not affect the ecology. However, few people are raising their questions on CPEC and its implication on the region.
