The month of July 2017 was one of political tumult in Pakistan given the sitting Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif was forced to quit after a court found him guilty on corruption charges. The ensuing political uncertainty post Nawaz Sharif's ouster had its reverberations felt in PoK as well. The present governments in both parts of PoK are led by Nawaz Sharif's PML-N (Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz). A set of reports in the current issue indicate how the leadership of both the so-called AJK and Gilgit Baltistan were hounded from all across when they tried to question the allegations on Nawaz Sharif. Raja Farooq Haider, the Prime Minister of the so-called AJK even went to the extent of saying that if conditions such as this prevail, then the so-called AJK may have to rethink its stance on annexation to Pakistan. He was speaking at a joint press conference in which the Chief Minister of Gilgit Baltistan, Hafeez-ur- Rehman, was also present. In his remarks, the Chief Minister of Gilgit Baltistan, Hafeez-ur-Rehman, noted that Nawaz Sharif's exit resulted from a planned conspiracy. Both leaders alluded to the economic revival of Pakistan under PML-N government and accorded Nawaz Sharif the credit for making the China Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC) a reality.

The reactions to the stand taken by the leadership from both parts of PoK drew sharp reactions. The very fact that they questioned the region's allegiance towards Pakistan was enough for political parties in opposition to ask them to apologize or tender resignations. While some accused them of treason, others implicated them of questioning the authority of honourable courts merely to defend their leader Nawaz Sharif. A string of stinging criticism against the PoK leadership exposes the critical fault lines in the dynamics shared between Pakistan and PoK. Such developments also put a big question mark on Pakistan's Kashmir policy. While Pakistan relentlessly harps on the principle of self-determination for people in Jammu and Kashmir, it denies the people of PoK the right to even question its illegitimate control on the region. It is important to note that all those holding public and political offices in PoK are made to sign a Bond of Allegiance- which means that those people will never question or challenge PoK's accession to Pakistan.

The Nation, July 12, 2017

Senator Pakistan People’s Party (PPP) Sherry Rehman tweeted that Neelum Jhelum dam has been commissioned and is under construction without geological survey despite being in earthquake zone. She stated this project as ‘sorry tale of increase debt on public via electricity tariffs’ and ‘shocking revelations about 5 Power Projects’, while attending Public Accounts Committee(PAC). This power station is located in Azad Kashmir, 42 km in south of Muzaffarabad. It had been designed to reroute water from the Neelum River to a power station on a Jhelum river. Construction on the project began in 2008 after a Chinese association was awarded the construction contract in July 2007. The first generator is scheduled to be commissioned in July 2017 and the project is expected to be complete in December 2017. The project was proposed to begin in 2002 and be completed in 2008 but this time-frame experienced significant delays due to problems in meeting rising costs. Additionally, the 2005 Kashmir earthquake which devastated the region required a redesign of the project to obey the rules to more rigorous earthquake standards.

“The Kashmir issue concerns the fate and political future of 20 million people: AJK President”

Pakistan Today, July 12, 2017

The Kashmir issue is not a pawn in the regional or international political chessboard but an issue concerning the fate and political future of 20 million people of Jammu and Kashmir, stated Sardar Masood Khan, President of Azad Jammu and Kashmir. He spoke these words while speaking at a seminar – Kashmir: a new Berlin Wall in South Asia – organised by the European Conservatives and Reformists Group, at the European Parliament, and hosted by Member European Parliament Amjad Bashir. Several European MEPs, academics and representatives of civil society were present at the seminar. Sardar Masood Khan noted that the analogy with the Berlin Wall was metaphorical but the difference was stark. While the Berlin Wall, approximately as old as the Line of Control/ceasefire line, was erased but the LOC still divides the people of Jammu and Kashmir. The people of J&K and Azad Kashmir wanted to unite by exercising their right to self-determination through a plebiscite, as mandated by the United Nations.

Dr Sudhanshu Tripathi, “Why is PoK important for India?”

Daily Excelsior, July 13, 2017

Pakistan occupied Kashmir (PoK) is a self-governing administrative unit of Pakistan which is passing through the worst phase of turmoil along with that in Gilgit-Baltistan too – a part of Pakistan occupied Kashmir – due to its possible conversion into Pakistan’s fifth province. And that has gained traction due to China Pakistan Economic Corridor (CPEC) initiative launched by China. While grim situations have had occurred earlier too in the Kashmir valley but the ongoing chaos being witnessed are as serious as the one that actually happened after the arrest of Sheikh Abdullah in 1953, which have already taken the toll of around 9000 injured and 100 dead. Though the restlessness among misguided youths of the state is not a new phenomenon as most of them are used to violence and terror, they very often take recourse to lawlessness and anarchy, like stone-pelting or attacking police, security forces and military in their illegal-immoral bid to protect terrorists and anti-national elements. Although the incorporation of Gilgit-Baltistan into Pakistan’s territory may considerably undermine India’s claim on the region but it cannot altogether remove it, because irrespective of the unlawful incorporation India will continue to uphold its claim more vociferously on both parts of PoK as it has been doing since 1947. Though on the domestic front India’s policy on PoK has been dismissed as being inert and least assertive since the very beginning but that has been changed by PM Modi. While boldly raising issues concerning PoK, he (Modi) appears to have redrawn the rules of engagement. Lately, Gilgit-Baltistan has significantly been elevated into India’s strategic calculations due to the Chinese foray into the region. Undoubtedly, the Indian government should consider the complex issue in a holistic manner by learning from the past mistakes and take innovative and bold measures to solve this vexed issue. As an option Prime Minister Modi’s initiative of practicing a muscular foreign policy not only as regards PoK – as was seen during the surgical strike in the PoK – may prove to be a milestone towards opening for more such actions to follow towards resolving all such pending complex issues towards their positive and lasting solution.

Lt Gen Pramod Grover (retd), “Dams Pakistan will build”

The Tribune, July 20, 2017

The Indus waters have for long been a bone of contention between India and Pakistan after the division of the drainage basin. The major portion did go to Pakistan but under the Indus Waters Treaty (IWT) regulations, India can use 20 per cent of the total discharge of this system. Therefore, although at a seminal advantage, Pakistan unfortunately has been unable to optimise it. Thus water is becoming an existential issue for Pakistan, with fast-depleting fresh water resources and endangering food security. Further, the storage capacity at the facilities developed by Pakistan is a quarter (indicating a paltry 150 cubic metres per person) of the minimum requirement of 120 days. Further as per Lt Gen Muzamil Hussain, Chairman Water and Power Development Authority (WAPDA), Pakistan wastes fresh water worth $25 billion annually. The proposal includes the construction of (i) Bunji Hydro-power Project (7,100 MW) near Skardu in PoK, (ii) Diamer Bhasha Dam (4,500 MW) in PoK, (iii) Dasu Hydro-electric Project (4,320 MW), (iv) Patan Hydropower Project (2,200 MW) and Thakot Hydropower Project (4,000 MW). The proposal will effectively convert this huge river into a series of lakes. The proposal is based on the assumption that it will provide requisite water security to Pakistan, in addition to generation of hydropower. The terms and conditions of infrastructural development and operations are still not clear. Perhaps Pakistan is overlooking an important fact regarding the flow of the Indus. The river distinctly flows from an area of higher precipitation towards a drier zone in the plains of the Punjab and Sindh, where its flow becomes sluggish and highly braided. Further, the quantum of water from the tributaries, too, is consistently declining. This dire situation may have a direct impact on water availability from a river that is Pakistan’s lifeline. Ample proof is the highly reduced discharge into the Arabian Sea between 2001 and 2009. The proposed dams may also lead to the submergence of a major part of the Karakoram Highway, initiating displacement and relocation of millions of people who will perhaps lose their livelihood as the agricultural fields will no longer be replenished by deposition of fresh, fertile sediments.

Dr Pervez Tahir, “Education spending in G-B”

The Express Tribune, July 21, 2017

Without being one in the constitutional sense, Gilgit-Baltistan (G-B) has some trappings of a province. It presents and approves a budget in its own assembly. However, resources flow through the budget is allocated to the Ministry of Kashmir Affairs and Gilgit-Baltistan, not as a share in the National Finance Commission. The budget for 2017-18 presented on June 14, 2017 has the total size of Rs54 billion, up 23.3% over the previous year’s budget of Rs43.8 billion. Out of this, Rs28.26 billion is the non-development budget, up by 11.4% from Rs25.4 billion earmarked in 2016. An amount of Rs18.3 billion is for development, compared to Rs13 billion in 2016-17. A federal subsidy of Rs7.8 billion is also, according to the finance minister, part of the development budget. Development expenditure on education has increased from Rs1 billion to Rs1.53 billion, a jump of 53%. However, this amount is only 8.4% of the total development budget. No break-up is available for allocations by functions. It is, therefore, not possible to have a clear idea of the distribution of resources at various levels of education. New school buildings, upgradation and provision of missing facilities are the main objects of expenditure. In 2016-17, there were 89 new and 72 ongoing schemes.

Ghulam Abbas, “Petroleum crisis in GB affect thousands of tourists”

Pakistan Today, July 27, 2017

Thousands of tourists visiting Gilgit Baltistan have started facing a shortage of fuel in the area following the short supply from oil marketing firms and a rise in demand. The suspension of fuel supply from some marketing firms for the last three months has also added to the sufferings of the people in the area. According to sources, Admore Gas—an oil marketing firm—which retails refined petroleum products and lubricants across individual and commercial market segments, has suspended its supply to the area for the last three months, causing closure of petrol pumps in the three districts of GB. The customers of the company in Skardu, Astor and Gilgit are not only being deprived of the supply but they are also being penalized by the local administration for not ensuring availability of fuel in the summer season. A petrol pump owner in Skardu noted, “We are not only facing huge losses in terms of revenue but also facing legal and administrative actions for not maintaining reserves needed to ensure in case of any emergency,” adding that the oil supplying firm was making lame excuses for the disruption in supply for the last three months. The company, he noted, was not even giving a NoC so that the dealers could avail facilities of other firms.

Asian Age, July 29, 2017

Jammu and Kashmir Chief Minister, Mehbooba Mufti, on July 29 stated that Peoples' Democratic Party (PDP) will not allow closure of cross-LoC trade. "There are many difficulties through the Wagah border; charas and ganja comes from there but no one talks about closing it. Just because a mistake happens on the Srinagar-Muzaffarabad road, we should not talk about closing it. We will not allow that to happen," she noted while speaking at a rally held to mark the 18th foundation day of the PDP. On July 21, the Jammu and Kashmir police seized 66.5 kilograms of narcotics including heroine and brown sugar worth Rs. 300 crore from a truck which was part of the merchandize-laden convoy of lorries coming from Pakistan-occupied-Kashmir (PoK) at the LoC Trade Facilitation Centre at Salamabad near Uri in Baramulla district. The narcotics had allegedly been concealed in "fake cavities specifically fabricated for this purpose in boxes purportedly to contain mercantile goods" in one of these. Following a complaint from India, the Pakistani authorities earlier this week asked for suspending the trade between the two sides. They also noted that an inquiry has been launched into the alleged misuse of facility.

Minister Hafeezur Rehman and AJK Prime Minister Raja Farooq Haider for what they called bringing into disrepute Pakistani institutions in a bid to defend the alleged corruption of ousted prime minister Nawaz Sharif. Terming Mr Rehman and Mr Haider as traitors, the PTI and PPP leaders demanded registration of FIRs against them for their 'derogatory' remarks against judiciary and military. Speaking at a news conference in Gilgit Press Club, PTI GB chapter secretary general, Fatullah Khan, stated that GB chief minister and AJK prime minister had insulted the sentiments of the people of AJK and GB and their strong affiliation with Pakistan, its army and judiciary. "We strongly condemn the remarks of AJK prime minister and GB chief minister, and ask them to tender an apology for such remarks," he noted. While addressing a press conference in Islamabad, the AJK premier noted that Kashmiris would have to rethink their stance whether or not to align with Pakistan, apparently angered over the disqualification of PM Nawaz Sharif by the Supreme Court. In his presser, also held in the federal capital, the GB chief minister noted that former Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif's disqualification was a rebellion. "These remarks are unacceptable to us. Heads of both the regional governments have committed treason, for which they should be asked to leave their respective public offices," demanded Fatullah Khan.

The cross-LoC trade from Teitrinote-Chakan-da-bagh trade point is suspended since last four weeks following the reported exchange of fire between Indian and Pakistani forces at the LoC in Poonch sector. ## Athar Masoodi, “Kashmir issue became an international issue with the American Ban”

Daily Mahasib, July 1, 2017

Despite the change of administration, the American foreign office always maintained that there is no change in the US policy on Kashmir. The US asked both countries to solve it amicably with dialogue. However, if both countries asked for mediation, the US could do that. By putting a 27 year old Kashmir based militant organization and its chief commander on the terrorist list, the US seems to have changed its policy in South Asia. At the same time, the US acknowledges the Kashmir dispute and is ready to offer support for the settlement of the dispute. This shows the contradiction in Trump’s policy. There is another argument- that the announcement by Trump administration is to woo India so that it would purchase more weapons from the US. In Azad Kashmir, J&K and Pakistan, this move is being seen as unjust for Kashmiris and done mainly to appease India. People are disappointed with this decision especially those who were hopeful of American efforts for the settlement of Kashmir issue.

“A Good News has come from Iran”

Daily Mahasib, July 1, 2017

Iran’s supreme leader Ayatollah Syed Ali Khomeini talked about atrocities in Kashmir twice in a short span of time. First, he voiced his concerns while delivering a sermon on the occasion of Eid-ul-Fitr. During his address to judiciary, he also asked to formulate a legal position after reviewing the international laws on Kashmir and other global issues. Srinagar has welcomed the Iranian leader’s expression of concern and asked Iran to improve its relation with Pakistan. Iran used to be an open and free supporter of Kashmir’s freedom. During the revolution, Iran’s official position of Kashmir was clear and loud. However, Iran’s proximity with India increased and it started distancing itself from Pakistan. Almost two decades passed like this and now the global and regional scene is yet again changing.

Daily Dharti, July 2, 2017

History of Kashmir is several hundred years old. When India and Pakistan were not even on the map of world, the state Kashmir was there. Due to wrong policies of leaders from Sheikh Abdullah to contemporary leadership, Kashmiris have been treated as slaves and second class citizens. A mistake was committed in 1947 and since then mistakes have continued. Kashmiris consider Pakistan as a big brother and their target is to complete Pakistan. However, Pakistan is not doing what it could do for Kashmir. God forbid if Pakistan is not able to represent Kashmir due to fear of India or any other reason. Kashmiri people wants to bring in to the notice of UN and international community that right of self-determination must be given to Kashmiris.

Qasim Nasim, “CPEC is not suitable for GB”

Daily Salaam, July 5, 2017

The government is taking a position that CPEC is a commercial project and Gilgit-Baltistan is not fit for it. People of Gilgit-Baltistan will be right to say that it is forbidden for them to participate in CPEC. Chief Minister of GB Hafiz Hafeezur Rahman noted during the budget session that they have reviewed the CPEC minutely and it appeared that CPEC is a commercial project and Gilgit-Baltistan is not fit for that. Thus commercial activity under CPEC is not possible for Gilgit-Baltistan. In past, the Chief Minister and other government officials claimed that Gilgit-Baltistan will be a gateway of CPEC and, hence, will be biggest beneficiary of the project. Further, Gilgit-Baltistan will have an economic zone. It had been the position of federal as well as the state government that Gilgit-Baltistan will get equal share in CPEC. Now after two years, the Chief Minister himself is saying that there is no relation between CPEC and Gilgit-Baltistan. The Gilgit-Baltistan Chief Minister is saying that CPEC is not suitable for Gilgit-Baltistan.

The change in stand is not sudden. It is due to a change of federal government's policy vis-à-vis Gilgit-Baltistan. This was the reason why the Chief Minister of Gilgit-Baltistan was not part of the prime minister's delegation to China. One of the senior officials also spelt out the same reason for not taking Gilgit-Baltistan Chief Minister to China. He also noted that the CPEC will be renamed as OBOR and Diamer Bhasha dam will be called only Bhasha Dam. The constitutional status is being fixed as per theory of necessity. Gilgit-Baltistan's legal status is clear and known to everyone. Detailed pre- independence history is available and after independence facts related to annexation to Pakistan is again crystal clear.
